In this month’s newsletter, you’ll find the regular updates on our activities, from learning and teaching, conferences and events, publications, and, to the conference and outreach events we’ve been part of.

To keep up with the most recent drilling news from the team in a hop, follow us on Twitter @HWPsych, or find us on Facebook.

Links: Social Sciences | Psychology | Twitter | Facebook

The newsletter displays best on tablets (PDF attached also).

Follow our updates on Twitter @HWPsych

Full Psychology Research Seminars details are available on the Watt Research Portal.

Welcome to the latest Psychology newsletter

October 2017

Our Psychology Research Seminars have restarted; event details are available on the Watt Research Portal. For the next seminars are above with a fuller list on the page, including our Psychology Research Showcase on 22 November.

Postgrad Students Welcomed with Party in The Caves
Heriot Watt in top five universities in Scotland
Watt rises in World University Rankings

Our latest publications are available on the Watt Research Portal. Find a full list via the Watt Research Portal.

The semester got off to a good start with the 4thYears being welcomed on 13 September, with Maria Garraffa, Mary Stewart, Kevin Muldoon, and some hints about the common concerns related to their final examination. The 4th Years comed at a special Honours Day in Week 1, including talks from a range of university support services, colleagues from the School, and the Careers Service. Peter, alongside project colleague Ayan Ghosh, presented a talk on “Digital and online teaching. Alan Gow, A. J. (2017). What Keeps You Sharp? Presentation at the 2017 Cognitive Section Conference, Newcastle, UK, September.

ROAR

We wish Maggie well in her well-deserved retirement.

The team regularly present at national and international conference and at a range of public engagement events. A selection of the most recent includes:

