The team regularly present at national and international conferences. Congratulations to Minu Mathews (Guiding Hand Award) and more...

Congratulations to Nicola McGuigan on being awarded the Senior Public Engagement Award.

Our Psychology Research Seminars for the 2016/17 academic year are described in the newsletter, you can read more here and here.

In June, The Ageing Lab hosted the first Interventions in Cognitive Neuroscience Conference, discussing a range of topics including psychology of ageing and healthy aging. Annie Crookes, Lucy Bolton and Greg Fantham appeared in video recordings here.

The team recently presented at the Alzheimer’s Society's Research Leaders Award for one of the categories.

The team also recently presented a paper entitled “Atypical neuroplasticity in a symposium on Alzheimer’s disease” at the Alzheimer’s Association's 2017 International Conference in London. The paper was accepted to be published in the Alzheimer's Research & Therapy journal. More information here.

Our Psychology Research Seminars for the 2016/17 academic year are described in the newsletter, you can read more here and here.

The team recently presented a paper entitled “Atypical neuroplasticity in a symposium on Alzheimer’s disease” at the Alzheimer’s Association's 2017 International Conference in London. The paper was accepted to be published in the Alzheimer's Research & Therapy journal. More information here.

The team recently presented at the Alzheimer’s Society's Research Leaders Award for one of the categories.

Congratulations to Lorraine Douglas who completed her PhD viva on 4th July.

More details of her findings can be read in the Edinburgh University News Article titled "Excellent PhD defence for Lorraine Douglas". Read more...

The team recently presented a paper entitled “Atypical neuroplasticity in a symposium on Alzheimer’s disease” at the Alzheimer’s Association's 2017 International Conference in London. The paper was accepted to be published in the Alzheimer's Research & Therapy journal. More information here.

The team recently presented at the Alzheimer’s Society's Research Leaders Award for one of the categories.

Congratulations to Minu Mathews (Guiding Hand Award) and more...

Congratulations to Nicola McGuigan on being awarded the Senior Public Engagement Award.

Our Psychology Research Seminars for the 2016/17 academic year are described in the newsletter, you can read more here and here.

In June, The Ageing Lab hosted the first Interventions in Cognitive Neuroscience Conference, discussing a range of topics including psychology of ageing and healthy aging. Annie Crookes, Lucy Bolton and Greg Fantham appeared in video recordings here.

The team recently presented at the Alzheimer’s Society's Research Leaders Award for one of the categories.

The team also recently presented a paper entitled “Atypical neuroplasticity in a symposium on Alzheimer’s disease” at the Alzheimer’s Association's 2017 International Conference in London. The paper was accepted to be published in the Alzheimer's Research & Therapy journal. More information here.