

University Policy on Dictionaries in Examinations

Dictionaries are NOT permitted. The only exceptions are:-

- for students who have been assessed by the University's Disability Service and use of a dictionary is a specific requirement
- for students taking courses where provision of a dictionary is an integral part of the assessment process and professional practice requires such usage, e.g. within Languages and Intercultural Studies (LINCS) in the School of Social Sciences. Such exceptional arrangements will require the prior approval of the Dean acting on behalf of the relevant Studies Committee.

University Committee for Learning and Teaching (formerly Learning and Teaching Board) – Approved by Senate

2014 Revised, May 2019